

ECTS credits: 7.

Forms of assessments: Exam.

Number of hours per week:

2+1+0+1.

Types of assessment: Exam - test.

Department, providing instruction on the discipline:

Department.: Industrial management.

FACULTY OF MECHANICAL ENGINEERING AND TECHNOLOGIES.

Lecturer: Svetlana Lesidrenska.

Department.: Industrial management.

Tel.. 0878 01 10 80.

e-mail: svetla06@gmail.com

Annotation: The main objective of the course is to assist students in acquiring knowledge and skills to manage the personality and group behavior in the organization in a changing environment. The lecture course assigns the following tasks:

- To acquaint students with the current state and trends of organizational behavior development;
- to present the methods for managing the behavior of the individual and the group in the organization;
- to give the students knowledge of the management of human behavior and the group to increase the efficiency of the organizational activity;
- create skills to apply motivation and stimulation methods, effective team management, leadership;
- Provide knowledge to manage organizational changes and more.

Main issues of the syllabus content:

- Microeconomic approach to organizational behavior. Person and group.
- Organizational dynamics and organizational processes.

Content presentation: lectures, seminars, course work